In this project my partner and I drew the ER diagram together and face to face based on the project guidelines, so we can easily discuss design decisions. Then, we divided the ER diagram from the middle. Namely, user, team, sponsors etc. part and tournament, hall, table etc. part. My partner wrote the relational model of the first half and I wrote the second half. Even though we split this task, we were together while writing most of these parts. So, we can exchange information about the syntax of SQL, insufficiency to implement some constraints etc.

Since we did these task face to face, it was easy to solve difficulties. We referenced the lecture slides many times.

Besides gaining the ability to read, to create an ER diagram and to implement tables, relations etc. in mySQL, I have learned how to draw using online drawing tools.
